Why are we using these type of assessment?

- In professional life you will be doing mostly projects and not some exam test.
- The project we use are closely aligned to real projects that you will do.
- Projects assess many learning outcomes, prime among them modelling and simulation skills, problem solving skills and communication skills
- Post-COVID in new normal you will need to develop skills that will use digital portfolios and submissions.
- Projects can be done by you on your time and have less chances of disruption during pandemic times
- I would like to do away with Exam altogether, but for that I have to cross many hurdles put by admin (but it will happen one day :-))
- You will need to develop a good working self-discipline to do projects, plan it out. It will be easier
